Smoking in the workplace has always been a problem for employers. It decreases employee productivity and increases absences.

Take a look at these statistics:

- On average, smokers take 3.5 breaks a day to smoke.
- Smoke breaks range from 5 to 15 minutes each, resulting in lost work time.
- Smokers have twice the accident rate of non-smokers.
- Smokers can cost employers money for accidental injury and worker's compensation costs.
- On average, smokers miss work 50% more often than non-smokers.
- Many smokers in a company can also increase insurance premiums.

A 2005 study estimated the total cost of secondhand smoke exposure in the United States at $10 billion annually, $5 billion in direct medical costs, and $5 billion in indirect costs such as lost productivity.

Workers have been awarded unemployment, disability and worker's compensation benefits for illness and loss of work due to exposure to secondhand smoke.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that $4 billion to $8 billion in building operations and maintenance costs would be saved if policies prohibiting smoking in workplaces were adopted nationwide.

Healing Laser Clinics has a solution for helping your employees to kick the habit.

Our Certified Laser Technicians can transport our mobile laser to your workplace and treat your employees in a designated area of your facility.

The treatment takes approximately 20 minutes per person, but an additional 20 minutes should be allowed to fill out paperwork and provide counseling.

Healing Laser Clinics offers treatment packages for any organization that has 10+ smokers who are ready to quit. Employees can return to work immediately after treatment. Should an employee need a follow up visit, we will provide one for free, along with additional counseling.
